

RESOURCES

CELEBRATE HALLOWEEN
WITH THESE SCARY ARTICLES FROM THE ARCHIVES

WEEKLY EDITION • OCTOBER 31, 2018

From FFI Practitioner

In many parts of the world, October 31 is Halloween, so we couldn't resist featuring some topics that might seem scary to approach with your clients. In the spirit of Halloween, here are some spooky editions.

“Are Your Clients Prepared for Digital Death?”

by Holly Isdale

“Control of the Dead Hand: A case study”

by Ashvini Chopra

“Deviance in the Family Business: An interview with Kim Eddleston and Roland Kidwell”

by Russ Haworth

“Haunted Mansion: Secrets and Ghosts in Client Families”

by Gerry Donnellan

“In the Land of Giants: Redefining Rites of Passage”

by Jamie Weiner

“Reflections on the Soul of Family Business”

by Tom Hubler

“The Allegory of Conflict: Managing collisions in the family business”

by Anthony Devine

“The Devil’s in the Details: Search and recruiting for key family office and family business positions”

by Linda Mack and Kirby Rosplock

“The Power of Fear on the Family Firm: Avoiding a power outage”

by Kyle Danner

“Unmasking Imagination and Creativity: An interview with Charlotte Dillon and Oliver Hallam”

by Russ Haworth

Sneak Peek

Up next week, “Contracting in Family Enterprise Advising: A Critical Factor for Success” by Judi Cunningham and Wendy Sage-Hayward